"Does the Bush Administration Have a Strategy for the Middle East? Can It Succeed?"

Monday, March 8, 2004
12:00 p.m. *
Mershon Center
Room 120

This event is sponsored by the Mershon Center, the Program for Honors and Scholars, and the Department of Political Science

William B. Quandt is one of the country's leading experts on the Middle East. For several years he was a Senior Fellow in the Foreign Policy Studies Program at the Brookings Institution, where he conducted research on the Middle East, American policy toward the Arab-Israeli conflict, and energy policy. Prior to that, Quandt served as a staff member on the National Security Council and was actively involved in the negotiations that led to the Camp David Accords and the Egyptian-Israeli Peace Treaty.

He is the Edward R. Stettinius chair and currently serves as Vice Provost for International Affairs at the University of Virginia, where he settled after faculty positions at the University of Pennsylvania, the Rand Corporation in the Department of Social Science, UCLA and MIT.

William Quandt has written numerous books, including Peace Process: American Diplomacy and the Arab-Israeli Conflict Since 1967, Between Ballots and Bullets: Algeria's Transition from Authoritarianism, (Brookings, 1998); The United States and Egypt: An Essay on Policy for the 1990s, (Brookings, 1990); Camp David: Peacemaking and Politics, (Brookings, 1986); Saudi Arabia in the 1980s: Foreign Policy, Security, and Oil, (Brookings, 1981); Decade of Decisions: American Foreign Policy Toward the Arab-Israeli Conflict, 1967-1976, (University of California Press, 1977); and Revolution and Political Leadership: Algeria, 1954-1968, (MIT Press, 1969). He also edited The Middle East: Ten Years After Camp David, (Brookings, 1988).

*R.S.V.P. to Ann Powers if you plan to attend this event. *

Please note, this event was rescheduled from an earlier date (January 26, 2004).
